Nokia Wireless Charging Stand DT-910

One of Nokia's differentiators is its unique wireless charging capabilities which cuts out the hassle of getting on your knees and rummaging under the desk to grab your connector every time you need to juice up the mobile. Although some would argue that the regular process of charging your smartphone really isn't a lot of effort Nokia have tried to make it even simpler. Just pop your Lumia phone on the stand and let it refuel your device for you without having to touch a wire. Available from Micro-P

Nokia BH-701

This headset has a completely different way of attaching by ear-loop, which makes it look incredibly modern when compared to some other offerings out there. Unique and stylish, what more could you want from a headset? Available from Mobilecityonline

EPL-3FHUBE HDMI Adaptor for Galaxy S III

Designed for use with your 11-pin MicroUSB handset this handy adaptor allows you to connect your phone to any HDMI cable. You can now use this to show your phone screen on a big screen TV. This compact device is ideal when travelling around and can be used to show content on a mobile on a TV. Perfect for the boardroom. Available from Samsung

Jabra STONE2

Answer or Ignore -Those are the only two words you have to say. Jabra Stone2 is entirely voice activated. A call comes in, the headset tells you the number and you say "Answer" or "Ignore" to either accept or reject the call.

Each charge gives you 10 hours of talk time, and the charger slips easily into your pocket, so it's always with you when you need to recharge. That's our definition of always connected.

No need to shout as the Jabra Stone2 uses dual microphone technology that blocks out external noises and amplifies your voice, so you come through loud and clear. You can wear it and smile, all day long, with the headset's light and curvy design that fits comfortably to the shape of your ear.
